The Jenks Memory Café is a place for individuals and families or caregivers to come and participate in an organized activity, listen to a guest speaker, hear a variety of music types or gather support from others in similar situations.

This month we will be Naming That Musical Tune!

Growing evidence supports that music can be a tool to help reach and engage a person with memory loss. Listening to certain types of music can help elicit positive emotional memories, elevate mood, reduce stress and create renewed meaning and establish social connections.

Come connect with others through naming those old familiar favorite songs this month at the Jenks Memory café!

Caregiver Support Group is available during this activity
